LETTER FROM THE DIRECTOR

VIKAS ARORA
Director, InnoVedica Foundation

"A village is not just a settlement; it is a way of life. When I embarked on the path of social service, I realized that empowered villages form the foundation of a strong nation."

Through our foundation, our dream has always been that villages should not only be self-sufficient but also serve as models of sustainable development. A vision for India where—

- Every child is educated
- Enterprise skills are nurtured
- Agriculture, farming, and nature thrive
- Healthcare facilities reach every individual
- Villages are clean, green, and energy-independent

Steps Towards the Villages of the Future

In the coming years, we are committed to transforming every village into a 3S (Swaraj, Smart, and Sustainable) village.

- Digital education centers will be established in every village.
- Villages will become energy self-sufficient through solar power and water conservation.
- Healthcare services will be accessible to every individual so that no one is deprived of treatment.
- New employment opportunities will be created by promoting local industries and startups.

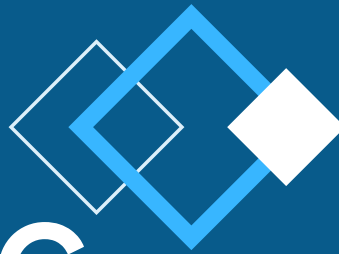

A Resolution, An Effort

"If we all come together with determination, the future will undoubtedly be bright."

"स्वावलंबन हो जीवन का आधार,
प्रकृति का मिले प्यार अपार,
हर कुटीर, हर गाँव से उठे आवाज़,
आओ बनाएं विकास की नई परिभाषा
आज यही है सच्चा हरित स्वराज"

"Self-reliance as the foundation of life,
Endless love from nature so rife.
From every cottage, every village, let voices rise,
Let's redefine progress with new insights.
This is the true essence of Green Swaraj."

THE BEGINNING

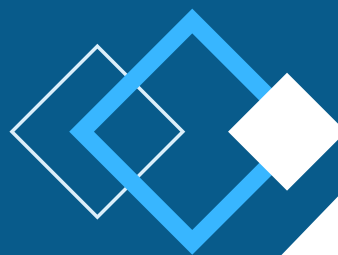

InnoVedica is one of leading civil society organizations. YEAR IN REVIEW

Strengthening Youth Participation

We launched the Youth for Swaraj initiative, a nationwide program aimed at fostering leadership, cultural exchange, and national integration among young individuals.

Environmental Sustainability

Our commitment to environmental conservation was demonstrated through large-scale tree plantation drives, river clean-up activities, and plastic waste reduction campaigns. We successfully organized afforestation efforts at Kirwali Farms and led a mass clean-up drive at the Chambal River, raising awareness about preserving natural ecosystems and reducing pollution.

Health Initiatives

Recognizing the need for accessible healthcare, we conducted free health check-up camps in rural and underserved communities. Additionally, we promoted indigenous medical practices through AYUSH awareness programs. These initiatives provided essential medical support and educated people about preventive healthcare measures.

Entrepreneurship & Economic Empowerment

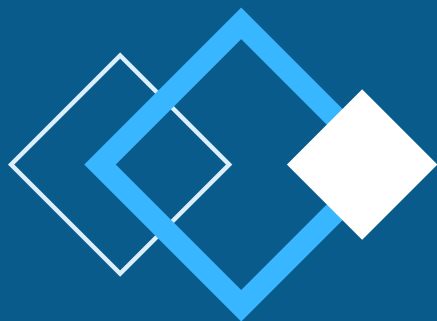

We focused on building self-sustaining rural economies by supporting Self-Help Groups (SHGs) and conducting skill development training. The Krishi Swaraj program introduced poultry and livestock training sessions, enabling individuals to develop sustainable livelihood options. Additionally, hands-on agricultural training programs enhanced local farmers' knowledge of soil health, organic farming, and water conservation techniques.

Education & Skill Development

Through the InnoVedica Education and Training Center, we expanded our learning platforms, combining online education via Mahaul Channel with physical training sessions in Faridabad.

We also collaborated with NGOs across India to provide technical and financial training, empowering individuals with industry-relevant skills for economic growth and self-reliance

SUCCESS STORY

1: Jal Project - Kirawali Village, Faridabad

- Kirawali, a picturesque village located near the Yamuna riverbed at the Delhi-Haryana border, was facing a serious water crisis. Traditionally, villagers relied on wells and handpumps for drinking water. However, most of these sources had become non-functional or highly contaminated. The nearby Yamuna River, heavily polluted with industrial and domestic waste, exacerbated the issue. According to local people, consumption of fish and water from the Yamuna was commonly linked to rising heart attacks and other serious health conditions, especially among the youth.
- Recognizing the urgency, the InnoVedica Foundation intervened under the Jal Project (2024-25) by setting up a Community-Level RO (Reverse Osmosis) Water Purification System. This system was designed to serve the entire village, ensuring access to clean and safe drinking water.

Impact:

- More than 100 households now regularly access pure RO-mineral-filtered water.
- Reduction in dependency on polluted river water and unsafe wells.
- Improved community health and increased awareness about water safety.
- Local youth have come forward to manage and maintain the system, promoting ownership and sustainability.

The project not only restored hope but also strengthened the community's resilience against waterborne diseases. Kirawali village today stands as an example of how small, community-driven interventions can lead to healthier and safer lives.

SUCCESS STORY

2: Anita ki Phoolon ki Kheti – A Journey of Blossoms and Empowerment (Anita ki Phoolon ki Kheti – Mahilaon ke Samman aur Swavlamban ki Kahani)

Innovedica Foundation, in partnership with the Vikas Foundation, has trained over 200 farmers in natural and sustainable agriculture, linking many with temple and local markets.

Among these stories, one that truly shines is that of Anita Devi from Lutiatri village, Mohanpur block, Deoghar district, Jharkhand. Alongside her husband Sachin Mahato, Anita turned her family's farming journey into a story of sustainability and self-reliance. After Sachin attended the Innovedica Foundation Programme, the couple launched a natural flower and vegetable farming initiative under the name "Anita ki Phoolon ki Kheti."

What started as a small idea soon blossomed into a source of inspiration. Anita took charge of cultivating marigold, gladiolus, gerbera, and sunflower, while her husband managed crops like green and yellow broccoli and Marua millet – all grown without chemicals, using traditional and sustainable methods.

Their flowers are now offered daily at the Baba Baidyanath Jyotirlinga Mandir, and the surplus is sold in local markets, providing steady income.

Impact:

What sets this initiative apart is not just the income but the empowerment of a rural woman who became the face of her family's agribusiness. Under the banner of Anita ki Phoolon ki Kheti, Anita Devi has emerged as a symbol of strength and leadership in her village, encouraging other women to step forward and lead their own ventures.

In Anita's own words:

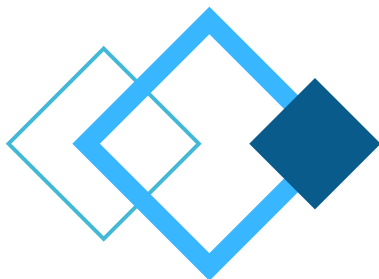

“पहले खेत में बस मेहनत करते थे, अब उसी मेहनत से इज़्ज़त और आमदनी दोनों मिल रही है।”
("Earlier, we just worked hard in the fields. Now, that same hard work brings both respect and income.")

Anita ki Phoolon ki Kheti is more than a farm – it's a movement of dignity, empowerment, and rural entrepreneurship, led by a woman who decided to bloom, and help others do the same.
